Flavors To Savor Collection

Fall has arrived and as sweater weather quickly approaches, consumers are beginning to cozy up indoors and embrace savory, hearty foods. Protein continues to be a hot topic. Meat and poultry products are protein powerhouses and Paleo and Ketogenic diets are trending. According to Packaged Facts, total retail sales of meat, poultry, and meat substitutes will be shy of $100 billion in 2021. U.S. retail sales of products with Paleo in the brand name rose 8% to $11.6 million in 52 weeks ending June 11, 2017, but this figure could reach $4 billion by 2020, according to IRI. In addition, time-crunched consumers are looking for convenient and portable snacks and meals. The meat snack category has posted compound annual sales growth of more than 7% during the past four years, with sales growth of 3.5% for the year ending February 25, 2017, according to Nielsen.
